

A month ago I arrived at Rancho Stepanavan, Mercy Projects farm in Armenia. The day after, I was joined by precious Believers from, Holland, Russia and a indigenous Northern Caucasus Republic. The following ten days were a realization of 25 years of prayers and waiting, as we gathered for fellowship, encouragement and development of oral Bible stories to more effectively share the Gospel with various Caucasus people groups. And, this initial group is just the beginning.

Next week, five young Bible students from E4 (RMC Colorado Springs) will come to spend an entire month working on the ranch and engage in practical cross cultural ministry with the youth group from the local Armenian church. And, further down in the calendar, there will be more teams from the US, Germany and a special kids camp from a Republic north of the Northern Caucasus mountains.

This is the Mercy Projects vision for Rancho Stepanavan. To the create a refuge for Believers to come and be in community with other Believers...to encourage each other, to pray with and for one another...to discover they are not alone in their faith...to see that God is building His kingdom in the Caucasus through them, no matter how difficult it is...to “cross—pollinate” with other young Believers from the local evangelical church...to find rest and inspiration for their souls...to breath in the fresh mountain air...drink some fresh milk from our cows...and oh yes, enjoy amazing hospitality and Caucasus’ cuisine.

To accommodate more Believers that are coming...Mercy Projects has taken a step of faith and started construction on two new A frames lodges. Each structure will cost approximately $23,000. USD Your financial support to help us complete these by June 1, 2025 would be greatly appreciated. Designate your gift Mercy Projects — A FRAME

Lastly, Dottie and I have a personal financial request. She would like to join me here at Rancho Stepanavan in June . Airfare is approximately $1600.00. We need to purchase her ticket by the first of May before fares increase. Please pray how you might help. Designate your gift to Mercy Projects: — Dottie’s LeCompte’s Rancho Trip 2025

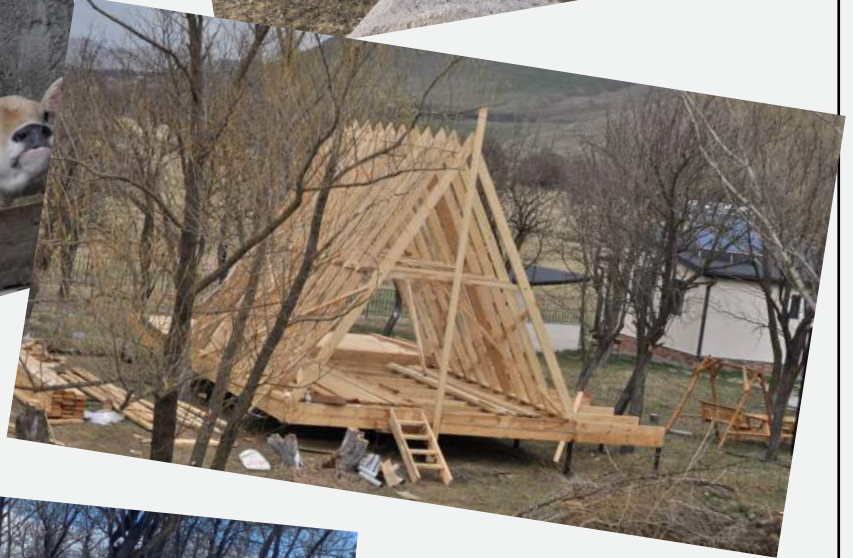

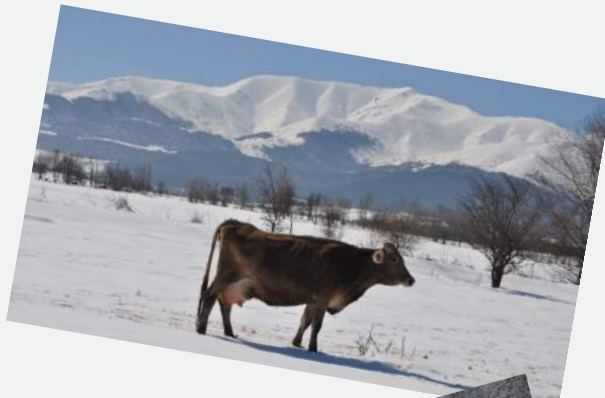

Blessings
